Moonbloom Labs

From evening idea to morning prototype

One evening, one night, one morning.

Then you decide.

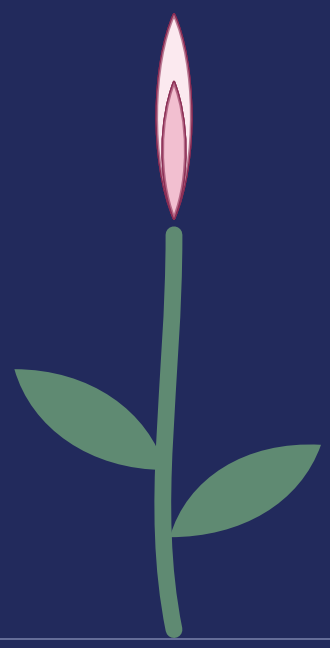

Evening

You describe the idea

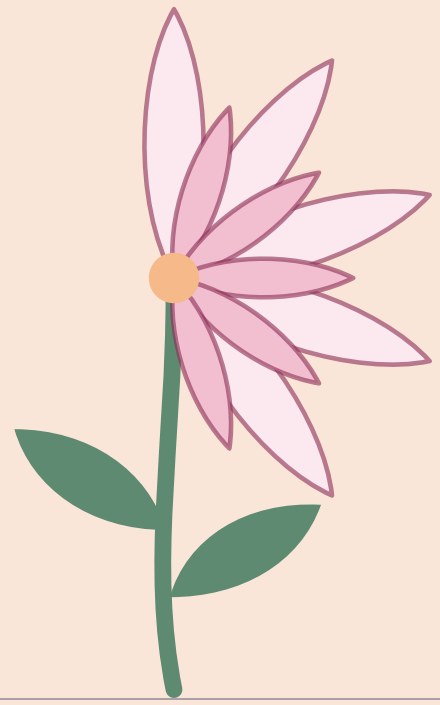

In a short call or a written brief you tell us what you want to see working. Together we cut it to a scope that fits one night.

Night

Agents build and test

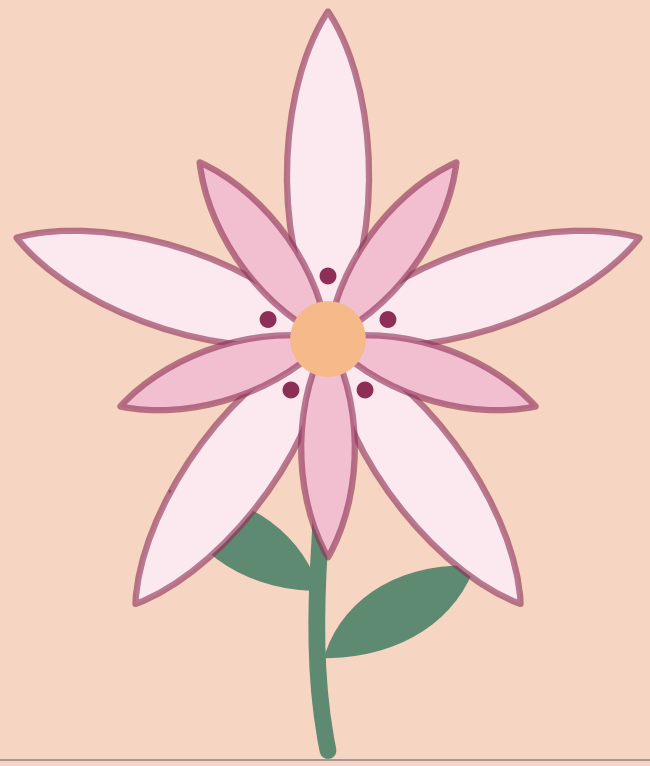

AI agents write the code and its tests, following the plan a senior architect reviewed before the build started.

Morning

Prototype, tests, demo, questions

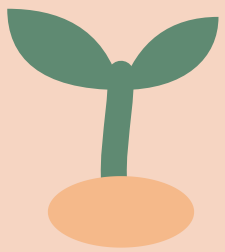

You receive a working prototype, its tests, a short demo and a list of open questions and decisions.

Decision

Approve or refine

You decide what happens next: approve it, refine it in another night, or plan the path to production.

Have an idea for tonight?

Tell us about it. We'll reply to agree the scope and an evening to start.

Plant your idea

moonbloomlabs.com/contact/